Service Description

Orygen Youth Health is a mental health service for young people aged 15 - 25 in the western and northwestern metropolitan region. OYH's focus is on providing early intervention to young people with severe and complex mental illness. As well as a service for young people and families, Orygen Youth Health provides training and secondary consultation to schools, youth services, community health and other service providers. Orygen Youth Health services include case management, counselling and skills training, medication, group programs, peer support and family peer support services. Orygen Youth Health has a specialist youth inpatient unit in Footscray for young people that require support or treatment in hospital. When should a referral be made to OYH? In general, a referral to OYH should be considered when the issues of concern have: Been persistent Affected many aspects of the young person's life Affected the young person's safety The young person has not responded to treatment already provided by another agency 9342 2800 / 1800 888 320 (Triage 24/7)
